INEZ BIOGRAPHY

Ines Brodbeck, born 1981 in Arlesheim, grew up in Basel's countryside with Cuban roots and lots of music. She worked in agriculture for three years after graduation, and was already travelling at the tender age of 20. Amongst other places she travelled through Havana Cuba, the home country of her father, who had already passed away. It was a place that brought her tremendous musical inspiration. Not long afterwards it became clear to her that the path she treads belongs to music. She decided to get a degree in music at the music academy in Basel, department of Jazz, Latin-Percussion.

Since her graduation from her masters degree in 2010 she has been working as a self-employed musician and composer.

During the last few years she gained a plethora of experiences with a number of different bands and theatre productions. Her debut album, Fiction Folk, was released in 2012, by the German label Foxtonesmusic. The womens trio (INEZproject) together with two other singers led her into using her voice on a more regular basis. It also inspired an increased usage of the guitar as an additional instrument on stage, as well as a tool to aid in composition. With the grand formation "INEZ <<for my friends>>" she successfully brought a grandiose live band onto the stage while also publishing a self-produced album. One day after the release on April 1st 2017, through a wonderful coincidence, she met the singer, guitarist and producer Gabriel Sullivan from Tucson, Arizona. He appeared on stage with his band XIXA at the Kaserne in Basel and participated as the support-band with 'Jaro Milko & the Cubalkanics'. Gabriel Sullivan had already been touring through Europe and the USA for years, amongst others with 'Giant Sand', and is one of the most innovative musicians in Arizona.

Gabriel and Ines immediately noticed that there was a wonderful resonance between the souls of their music. Shortly after, Ines decided to journey to Tucson Arizona to record her third album „NOW“ in his studio, with Gabriel as the producer.

After two weeks of intensive cooperation the production was more or less in hand. Also featured on the album are Winston Watson (XIXA, Bob Dylan), Ryan Alfred (Calexico), Connor Gallaher (Calexico) and Craig Schumacher (Calexico).

March 2018 marked Ines' second journey into the Arizona desert to record music videos for her new album.

Since two years she works and performs music with the musicians Fabian Gisler (BS) and Eric Gut (BS). They present both pre-existing, as well as new repertoire while performing live.

Over time, researching, learning new things, writing songs and bringing together musicians from all genres became somewhat of a personal speciality.

"I enjoy crossing borders to continue reorientating myself anew. Bringing together different worlds makes me incredibly happy!"
